Modernizing Health Care through Quality and Analytics with the Aim of Population Health

About the Speakers

Jean-François Beaulé is the Executive Vice President, Health Plan Division/Performance of UnitedHealth Group. Jean-François leads strategy for health plan engagement and design for UnitedHealth Group, emphasizing performance and best capabilities toward health ownership. His responsibilities include implementing a modernized framework for the largest most strategic sponsor plan designs and advancing enterprise-wide measurement utilities for behavior change research and development.

Todd Staub, MD is the Senior Vice President for Physician Relations at OptumCare – a part of UnitedHealth. In this role, Todd is helping to establish and strengthen relationships with external medical organizations, to bring new medical groups into the national OptumCare care delivery network, and to develop a research and education capability in OptumCare. Todd serves on the Board of Directors of the American Medical Group Association, and is the immediate past Chairman of the Board for ProHealth Physicians, an integrated primary care group practice in Connecticut.

Deneen Vojta, MD is Executive Vice President, Research & Development at UnitedHealth Group. Dr. Vojta is a member of the core Enterprise Research and Development leadership group, a division of UnitedHealth Group that is focused on accelerating enterprise innovation solutions to improve health care quality, reduce care costs, more effectively engage consumers in their health and help modernize the health system. Dr. Vojta has 20 years of executive experience in health system and health plan administration. Dr. Vojta previously served as Vice President of Research and Innovation for UnitedHealthcare.

UnitedHealth Group Inc. (UHG) is a US-based and managed health care company located in Minnetonka, Minnesota. It operates through two businesses: UnitedHealthcare and Optum. UnitedHealthcare is a benefits company serving approximately 45 million individuals throughout the United States, while Optum is a solution company working across the entire spectrum of managed care serving more than 100 million individuals.
